

Benefits of using VGATrader.com service to buy or sell a video card.

For Buyers:

- Listed PC Video Cards will often carry a lower price compared to the same card offered through a regular online hardware store. In many cases the savings will be substantial.
- Browse for the right PC Video Card using our optimized search function, “Buy Wizard” menu, and the Quick “Explorer” Nav located on the left side of VGATrader.com
- Cards are sorted by a single parameter: total price. Interpreting search results is easy. Simply, the least expensive video card in the specific category or subcategory is shown as a top and first listing. There is no second guessing about the best possible deal; item listed on top offers the best possible price in that category or sub-category of video cards.
- Our listings feature a detail description of the item, in addition to pictures. Most of the listed cards will feature a gallery with up to 3 pictures.
- Easily monitor trading history of other members using VGATrader.com. Public profiles of all members feature a custom feedback page in addition to the info about their Heatware feedback and EBay feedback (that you can verify).
- Easily view additional items listed by the specific seller by clicking on the public profile of that person.
- It is very easy to contact sellers with questions. To do that just click on the seller’s public profile.
- It is possible to send a financial offer to the seller. If you think that the seller’s price is too high, use VGATrader.com “Submit Your Offer” function to send your financial proposal to the seller (it can be rejected, so make sure to justify it).
- If you see a super nice deal and have no need for a video card at the moment, use our service to send an email message with the link to the listed card to your friend. It takes only few seconds to do that and your buddies WILL appreciate the notification.
- Manage your pending trades by using our custom “Account” control panel functionality. It makes it very easy to stay in touch with the seller and review your VGATrader.com messages. The control panel will also let you review your own feedback comments from previous trades.

- Trade with people from a variety of different Message Boards and Online Communities. VGATrader.com is a totally neutral meeting place. Remember that a person that you don't like may actually offer a sweet deal on that video card you always wanted. Even if we disagree with each other, we can still trade together.
- New security feature in the "Account" panel – ISP Email Validation. Validate your Internet Service Provider email (like comcast.net, sbcglobal.net, etc, etc) with us and give us and other VGATrader.com users enough information about your identity WITHOUT compromising your privacy (new feature).
- Learn more technical details about the listed video card by using the "Research this chipset" function. It opens up the info center page about the GPU used in the card on www.gpureview.com video card database service (new feature).
- Control the search results. VGATrader.com now offers security search filters. Restrict the search results to video cards offered by only those sellers who feature Heatware ID, Ebay ID, and validated ISP Email address in their profiles. It is up to you to manage with who you are going to deal with (new feature).
- VGATrader.com is free. It requires no credit card to sign up. There are no monthly statements to track.

For Sellers:

- Catch and ride the "upgrade wave". Sell your graphics card in the right moment to recover as much funds as possible and apply the amount toward the new purchase.
- Anybody who owns a PC Video Card can be a seller on VGATrader.com. Simply register account on VGATrader.com, go to the "Sell" link on the main menu, and start the process of listing your item.
- On average it takes only about 5 minutes to create listing. Our process is very easy. Simply place the card in the right category, decide about the price, describe the item, and finally upload up to 3 pictures of your card. It will sell faster if a detailed description of the card and its photos are included.
- Images are added to the listing for FREE. No paid-for gallery upgrades are necessary. Also, VGATrader.com automatically resizes and compresses attached images for you (although editing of images prior to uploading them on VGATrader.com is encouraged and appreciated).

- New security feature in the “Account” panel – ISP Email Validation. Validate your Internet Service Provider email (like comcast.net, sbcglobal.net, etc, etc) with us and give us and other VGATrader.com users enough information about your identity WITHOUT compromising your privacy (new feature).
- Easily control who can buy your listed card. Our new “Options” page in the “Sell Wizard” makes it possible to restrict buyers without well established trading credentials like Heatware ID, EBay ID, and ISP Email validation from buying the card. In addition, you can disable or enable international transactions. It is up to you to manage with who you are going to deal with (new feature).
- Your buyers can learn more technical details about the listed video card by using the “Research this chipset” function. It opens up the info center page about your GPU on www.gpureview.com video card database service (new feature).
- You can edit or cancel your listing at any time, provided that your card is not in the “Deal Pending” status (it means that someone already bought it). If someone bought the card, all editing options are suspended.
- Easily monitor trading history of other members using VGATrader.com. Public profiles of all members feature a custom feedback page in addition to the info about their Heatware feedback and EBay feedback.
- It is very easy to contact your buyers with questions. To do that just click on the buyer’s public profile.
- Control received “Best Offers” for the card in the “Account” control panel. If submitted offers are too low, simply reject them. On the other hand if one of the sent offers listed there is reasonable, accept it and initialize the trade.
- Manage your pending trades by using our custom “Account” control panel functionality. It makes it very easy to stay in touch with the buyer and review your VGATrader.com messages from other users. The “Account” control panel will also let you review your own feedback comments from previous trades
